

TERENCE D. (Terry) HAGEN

Terry Hagen currently serves as President, Aerospace and Technology and is a member of the Executive Leadership Team for Jacobs, a publically traded (NYSE) global professional services company. With over $12.0B in revenues and operations in over two dozen countries, Jacobs serves customers in a broad base of engineering, construction and technical services market sectors. Mr. Hagen has responsibility for all of the Aerospace and Technology line of business for Jacobs, which includes over 10,000 employees and accounts for over $2.5B in annual revenue. This line of business provides a full set of lifecycle capabilities to the aerospace, defense and nuclear industry for the design, construction/build and M&O of high technology facilities and systems.

Mr. Hagen joined Jacobs in 1987 and has worked in a number of the company's various market sectors in both senior operational and sales roles. Most recently he was the Executive Vice President, Global Sales and Marketing. Mr. Hagen is a graduate of the University of Kansas with a B.S. in Civil Engineering.