

As the Vice President of Clients and Markets for DRT Strategies, Inc., Kathy Taylor leads DRT's strategic and emerging customer accounts with a focus on the civilian and Health IT sectors. Ms. Taylor was instrumental in growing DRT's business across the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) and in leading efforts to enter new markets such as the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS). Her focus includes delivering quality IT solutions, ensuring high customer satisfaction, and developing strategic relationships.

Ms. Taylor is an executive leader with over twenty-five years of experience in information technology management. Her broad experience spans multiple industries including commercial consulting, software product manufacturing, and federal consulting. She has managed large federal contract portfolios, managed complex software development projects, and deployed enterprise applications across diverse user groups.

Ms. Taylor earned her Bachelor's degree in Information Systems from Virginia Commonwealth University and is a Project Management Professional (PMP)®.